Patricia J. Luebbe was born on September 5, 1937 in Archer, to Lawrence C. and Irene (Gilham) Luebbe. Patricia grew up in the Archer area, graduating from Archer High School in 1955. On November 6, 1955 Patricia married Merle Lee Weller at Archer Evangelical United Brethren in Archer. Following their marriage, Pat and Merle moved to Killeen, Texas and then to Poulsbo, Washington while Merle served in the United States Army. Pat and family moved back to Nebraska in 1958. In 1967 she began working for the Ordinance Plant in Grand Island for two years. She then bought the beauty shop in Palmer, and rented it out to several different stylists throughout the years. In 1984, she began working at the Branding Iron Café until her retirement.

Pat was a member of the Archer Zion United Methodist Church, the American Legion Auxiliary, as well as The Ideal Club. She loved to do yardwork, especially working with her flowers. She was also an avid reader and card player. Her greatest love was to get to spend time with her family, especially her grandchildren.

Those left to cherish her memory are her children – Debra (Bruce) Faimon of Seward, Richard Weller of Palmer, and Jamie (Kristi) Weller of Palmer; her brother – Roger (Barb) Luebbe of Grand Island; sister-in-law – Dee Luebbe of Central City; and her grandchildren – Christopher, Natasha, Michelle, Westley, Dillon, and Jacob.

She was preceded in death by her parents; her husband; and three brothers – William Luebbe, Richard Luebbe, and Kenneth Luebbe.

Comments

“ Roy and I are sorry for your great loss. I often visited with Pat at the Branding Iron Cafe, usually in the kitchen. I would tease her about her busy life, which I read about in the old Palmer Journal. We especially talked about our grandchildren. We have missed seeing her since we have lived in Omaha. You have our deepest sympathy.
