“ It is hard to believe that you are gone...Anytime I see a picture of you, I still see this 11 year old boy who followed his dad around every where and was always finding mischief. You and I became pretty close back then and kept touch for a few years when we were all grown up, but life happened and we lost touch. A couple of times we reached out to each other just to see where life had taken us, but that was many years ago. I hope you find the peace that you searched for throughout your life. Rest easy my dear. I will be missed by many. Say hi to your dad for me!
