Nancy Ellen was born on December 13, 1947 in Denton, Texas. Her parents were George and Katherine (Edgar) McMahan. Nancy grew up in Fort Worth, graduating from Paschal High School in 1966. Following graduation, she attended Texas Christian University, where she majored in Psychology. Nancy worked for several years as a Technical Writer for Applied Data Research in Irvine, TX. She then began working for the Texas Rehabilitation Commission in Dallas. Nancy raised her 4 children in Garland, TX where she remained until 2000, when she moved to Aurora, Nebraska. She then moved to Grand Island and eventually to Central City in 2010.

Nancy was a member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints in Aurora. She enjoyed crocheting, reading, doing puzzles, solving crossword puzzles, and playing the piano. Her greatest love was taking care of her children and especially her grandchildren. She was a very knowledgeable person, and if the children ever had any questions about something she had an answer for them. She was like a “walking encyclopedia”.

Those left to cherish her memory are her children; Tommy (Jamie) Hart of Arlington, TX, Meri Nosker of Central City, NE, Amy (Jeff) Ziska of Central City, NE, and Laura (Wayne) Collett of Krum, TX; and one brother, Douglas (Paula) McMahan of Mansfield, TX.

She was preceded in death by her parents; George and Katherine McMahan.
