Robert Ronald was born on February 15, 1922 in Belgrade to Jesse and Rachel (Weatherson) Craig. Ron grew up in rural Fullerton and graduated from Fullerton High School. After he graduated from High School he entered the United States Army where he served his country proudly during World War II from August 27, 1940 until October 31, 1945. While serving his country, Ron drove truck and earned several medals for his service; including the American Defense Medal, American Service Medal, World War II Victory Medal, and Good Conduct Medal. After returning from the military he moved to Broken Bow, where he worked on several ranches. Ron then married Vera Hagen, and moved to Central City where he was a custodian for the Central City High School until his retirement.

Ron was a member of the United Methodist Church in Central City, the VFW, and the Grand Island Saddle Club. He loved to work in his garden, as well as to go hunting and fishing.

and Michele Christensen and Richard Christensen, his children; Robert Craig, Jr., Nancy Craig, Rita Frith, and Shirley Craig; and his step-daughter; Neola McAlvey.

He was preceded in death by his son; Charles Craig, two brothers; Joe Craig and Lowell Craig; and sister, Agnes Cox.
